MRS. PANTAGES GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

PROBATION NOT TO BE OPPOSED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—UP—A superior court jury tonight found Mrs. Lois Pantages guilty of manslaughter in the auto crash death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener.

The verdict was returned after 27 hours deliberation. A manslaughter conviction in California carries a penitentiary term of from one to ten years. Defense attorneys said that probation would be asked when she comes up for sentence. Deputy District Attorney James Costello said his office would not oppose, leaving the matter entirely up to the court.

Free On Bond
On the plea that the millionaire theater man's wife was in a weakened condition as a result of the accident, and that she has been at liberty under $50,000 bond, during the trial, she was released in custody of Attorneys W. I. Gilbert and Joe Ford, pending sentencing. There was no objection.

She will be sentenced Friday afternoon.

Superior Judge Carlos Hardy said that he had observed that she was not strong.

When the verdict was read, Mrs. Pantages gave a sob and cried, "Oh."

Breaks Down
During the argument on release she broke down completely and at the conclusion of the session was surrounded by her family, sobbing audibly.

She was led to an ante room by Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh and there fainted.

Mrs. Pantages was accompanied by her husband, Alexander Pantages, two sons Lloyd and Rodney and her daughter, Carmen.

Famly Nervous
As the verdict was read Lloyd and Carmen clasped hands. Pantages, sucked his thumb and showed no reaction. The verdict came after four weeks of bitter court trial in which the state accused Mrs. Pantages of driving while drunk, heading wildly for the wrong side of the street and striking the Japanese car.

The battle was one of mental testimony. Defense experts held that Rokumoto, who died on an operating table three days after the crash, had succumbed to the ether.

Pantages, a theater man, will go to trial on Oct. 1, on a charge of attacking a 17 year old dancer, Eunice Pringle.

LEGION POST TO ELECT OFFICERS

HUGGINS GAME TO END PLAYS LAST CONTEST

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—UP—The Great Empire called out Miller Huggins on strikes at 3:16 this afternoon.

Battling gamely against a luscious infection which started from a boil, the diminutive manager of the New York Yankees had been lingering between life and death for the last several days.

Three blood transfusions were performed today but they only gave him an extra inning of life. Weakened by influenza, Huggins' system was unfit to arrest the erysipelas infection which gradually spread from the boil until it covered both sides of his face.

End Sudden
Col. Jacob Rupert, owner of the Yankees, and Secretary Ed Barrow had just left St. Vincent's hospital when Huggins died. Dr. Edward A. King, club physician of the Yankees, was not in the dark little room, either, when the end came.

A nurse in a freshly starched linen garment slipped quietly into the corridor and informed.

RICHMOND GIRL REPORTED SAFE

"Water ruined everything. Am all right. Leaving for Socorro, Helen Burg."

This was the terse telegram received by E. J. Burg, local realtor, yesterday afternoon from his daughter Helen who was marooned with 45 persons in an old building at San Marcial, New Mexico where the flood waters from the mighty Rio Grande had wiped the little town completely off the map.

Only one building in the town has withstood the ravages of the flood, according to word received here by Burg. In this building, where water has covered the floor of the first story to a depth of three feet, 45 survivors huddled, with enough food on hand to last for only two days.

Between the one house and civilization is one lone telephone wire, the only means of communication. Through the use of this wire, Miss Burg has kept constantly in touch with her parents.

Although details were lacking, it is understood that rescuers have entered the town of San Marcial with flatboats and barges and are removing the survivors from the town to the town of Socorro, near Albuquerque.

3 Lenses Stolen
By S. F. Thieves

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—UP—Reporting his most serious loss from robbers had been three microscope lenses, Dr. D. V. Burke sought police aid here today and suggested the intruders probably had a scientific turn of mind.

54 TREMORS RECORDED IN HAWAII

HONOLULU, Sept. 25.—UP—Succeeding earth tremors tonight sent natives of the Hawaiian Islands into paroxysms of fear that the violent rumblings and quakes under the earth portended serious volcano eruptions.

Fifty-six tremors were recorded within 72 hours. Many more local vibrations in other parts of the islands went unrecorded.

The shocks were mild at first but grew stronger and stronger, finally shaking houses violently and causing rents in the walls.

The quakes centered around the active volcano on Mt. Maunaloa and the inactive Hualalai crater on the island of Oahu.

Observatory records showed that lava in Maunaloa was rising rapidly in direct proportion to the increasing severity of the shocks.

An eruption was expected momentarily to send molten rock spewing down the mountain side.

The crater at Hualalai has been dormant since a disastrous outburst in 1801, but if the tremors near it continue, officials were of the opinion that it too would burst into flames.

Dr. Thomas A. Jagger, observer of Kilauea observatory, upon returning to Hilo from Kona near Hualalai, reported that the quakes there were getting more violent. He said that 10 times as many quakes were felt there as were recorded at the observatory.

"Something is happening," he said. "It looks like Hualalai is getting active. Records indicate the seat of activity is at Maunaloa while surface indications point to Hualalai. Most anything is liable to occur."

Conditions he said, were similar to those previous to the flow from Maunaloa in 1868.

Other volcanoes are active throughout the world, Dr. Jagger said, and caused him to believe that the activity here is partly cyclical.

Membership cards were signed. Credit for the reduction in city taxes for the coming year was claimed for the organization.

by Lee D. Windrem, who stated that this alone has justified the existence of the organization.

He called attention to the small amount expended by Pittsburg on its waterfront and the number of industries that have located there.

"Without industries what benefit is our harbor going to be to us?" he asked. "What do we get out of it? Nothing. It only amounts to a stevedore job and possibly a little work for a few trucking firms. We feel that if we can establish a stable and reserve to Harry Sinclair."

HEAVY GALE EXPECTED SOON

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25.—UP—A hurricane, of unknown intensity has been moving towards the coast from the Bahamas since Tuesday and was due to hit the seaboard at any hour tonight. Radio service to Nassau, Bahamas Islands, was broken off late today just after reports had told of a 42-mile an hour wind there.

A late weather prediction from Atlanta was that the storm would strike the coast between west Palm Beach and Titusville.

Along the coast what precautions were possible had been taken, to avoid the disasters that befell the rich citrus belt on two previous occasions in recent years.

Preparations Made
Hurricane shutters were erected on shopfronts. Small boats were taken to places of safety. Large ships proceeded cautiously, prepared for heavy weather.

It was possible the storm would be diverted, as have others, up the coast. But winds as high as 50 miles an hour already had been reported at some points. At West Palm Beach the barometer dropped steadily during the afternoon.

One casualty was reported this afternoon—the British steamship Domara, blown ashore north of Abaco Island in the Bahamas—where the storm originated. A Radio Marine corporation message gave news of the ship's plight.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, on his way back from his air mail flight to Paramaribo, was well outside the hurricane area, but even that far away—between Dutch Guiana and Trinidad—he encountered the storm's effects.

EXPECTED TO HIT MIAMI
HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 25.—UP—Meteorologists at the National observatory tonight predicted that the hurricane moving towards the Florida coast would hit, probably in the vicinity of Miami, with a velocity that might reach 150 miles.

'Fee' System Used In School Probed

MARTINEZ, Sept. 25.—As a preliminary step toward official scrutiny of the "fee" system employed in some of the Contra Costa county schools, action has been taken by trustees of the John Swett high school of Crockett to eliminate money deposits required of pupils.

Phases of the "fee" system were recently investigated by Rodeo trustees. It is understood that claims were made that in some instances deposits required of pupils run as high as $9.

Similar situations are said to exist in the Martinez and Crockett schools with the result that the general situation has been referred to the county superintendent of schools for inquiry.

Deposits are required in some of the schools for towel service, pencils are sold, pupils are required to purchase locks for lockers and deposits are required for drawing paper, binders, shop work sewing and the chemistry department. Protests against the system characterize the requirements as imposing "undue restrictions against laborers' children" and as making it a "fee privilege to attend high school."

Rancher Released On Poison Charge

MARTINEZ, Sept. 25.—Thomas Martin, was freed today in the court of Justice of the Peace Frank Glass, on a charge that he had scattered poisoned barley about his property in Oakley.

The complaint had been made by Mrs. Mary Sanches, a neighbor, who did not name Martin directly in the complaint. Martin contended that the property referred to in Mrs. Sanches' complaint had been rented and that he had nothing to do with its operation.

Martin failed to take the stand in his own defense and the court contended that no case has been made against him.

Mrs. Sanches caused Martin's arrest after she stated that a number of her chickens had been poisoned. Deputy district attorney, R. L. Boyer and Constable Joe Jesse of Oakley made an investigation to determine of the two year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Beckley had been poisoned.

Dr. L. B. Weatherbee, who treated the tot stated that it had been poisoned, and that its mother had stated that the child had vomited barley.

Antioch Urged To Build New School

ANTIOCH, Sept. 25.—This city has been urged to build a new $150,000 high school on a site adjacent to the present grammar school.

In making the recommendation Andrew Hill, of Sacramento, supervisor of the state department of school house planning, pointed out to a mass meeting of citizens last night that the structure was an absolute necessity for the needs of the city.

Expenditures of $108,000 would be necessary to meet requirements of enlargement to the present school system, Hill pointed out.

He stated that he believed it would be more economical to abandon the present site, build a new school and relocate, instead of a mass meeting of citizens last night that the structure was an absolute necessity for the needs of the city.

Life Threats Cited In Divorce Complaint

MARTINEZ, Sept. 25.—Charging that her husband had several times threatened her life and those of her two children, are contained in a divorce complaint filed here today against Henry A. Christy by Mrs. Helen P. Christy of Hercules. This is the second marriage of the couple as they had been previously divorced.

On one occasion her husband pointed a loaded revolver at her and at another time he choked her until she was almost unconscious. Mrs. Christy charges in the divorce complaint.

Mrs. Christy asks custody of the two children and $75 a month to aid in their support.

The couple was married the last time on June 30, 1923 and separated on Feb. 14, of this year, the divorce complaint sets forth.

Richmond Merchant Ends Life With Gas

Funeral services are pending at the Wilson & Kratzer chapel here for Charles Bergeman, 65, owner of a store at 64 South street, who committed suicide early yesterday morning.

Bergeman's body was found slumped over an open gas stove, his head covered with a blanket, when two men broke into his store.

D. W. Collins, an Oakland cigar salesman, visited the store yesterday morning and found that the doors and windows were locked. Looking through a window, he saw Bergeman huddled over the stove.

George Newford, an employee of the Pacific Gas & Electric station nearby, heard Collins' shouts and rushed to his aid. Together they broke into the store.

Bergeman, according to authorities, had been ill for several years. A cardboard sign found near the cash register was worded, "Store closed temporarily because of ill health."

Police expressed the belief that Bergeman probably ended his life early yesterday morning after a night of suffering. His bed had not been used and he was fully clothed when found.

The store was frequented mainly by employees of the Pullman shops, directly across the street.

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

False modesty is a relic of an ancient prejudice. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cut it away and, in behalf of better health and pure enjoyment, sponsors the fashion of sensible swimming attire.

"toasting. did it" —

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

LIFE OF FEJOS TRIBUTE TO PLUCK

From Vienna came a new genius, in America, alone and friendless, he starved and waited. His two wives and children were diplomats from celebrated foreign universities, diplomats that proclaimed to the world that Paul Fejos was a noted physician. He still has the diplomats but now he also prizes much more highly another bit of paper, a contract with Universal Pictures corporation as a film director, the result of his sensational work on "Lonesome," the Universal special to be shown today only at the Fox-California theater.

The war made conditions abroad untenable for Fejos. All was chaos. His wife was still. He began to wonder whether he was justified in casting medicine aside for the more precarious adventure of the films. He came to America. They didn't understand him and so he joined his wife with the Rockefeller Foundation as an expert bacteriologist. After saving railroad fare he went to Hollywood.

It was no better there. His money gave out. Time after time he walked the eight miles to Pasadena and picked oranges from the southern California orchards, his sole means of subsistence. Then he met a kindred spirit who had a few dollars. "You Fejos outlined some startling ideas for a picture," she said. "Then he met a kindred spirit who had a few dollars. "You Fejos outlined some startling ideas for a picture," she said.

Under endless hardships and under the most rigorous conditions the picture was finished. Then the world sat up and took notice that a genius was in the midst. The picture was "The Last Venus," which introduced a new cinema technique.

Carl Laemmle, Jr. saw the picture. He sent for Fejos. A short conversation convinced the young Universal executive. Fejos received a contract and the assignment to make "Lonesome." He was given Glenn Tryon for the boy and Barbara Kent for the girl. When critics saw it they exhausted their vocabulary of superlatives.

There is no doubt that "Lonesome" will set a new standard of film-making. The story, although a simple one of a boy and girl who seek escape from a horrid loneliness, has been depicted with a garb and beauty and starkness of appeal never before transferred to the screen.

Tryon and Miss Kent are superb in their conceptions of the characters in Mann Page's story and lovers of the new in a cinematography will almost be startled with the wealth of pictorial novelty introduced by Fejos' camera-master and story-teller extraordinary.

Other short features on this program include Charley Chase in talking comedy.

13 PROMINENT IN 'MODERN MAIDENS'

If the number thirteen is a jinx, "Our Modern Maidens" the Metro Goldwyn Mayer's new epic of jazz, a Joan Crawford starring vehicle which comes tomorrow to the Fox-California theater with a sound synchronized score, ought to be fairly saturated with voodooism instead of the spirit of youth. Almost everything in it comes to thirteen.

Production on this new ultra-modern picture started on Friday when Jack Conway directed the first scene. There are exactly thirteen people in the cast including the various bit and part players. The sets all numbered in the studio's bookkeeping department, were all in the 1200 classification. The picture was finished on the thirteenth of the month and the last scene was number 213, as listed in the script.

To make matters worse the unit production manager, Ulrich Dusch has just thirteen letters in his name!

The picture, an original by Josephine Lovett, author of "Our Dancing Daughters," has one married couple in it. That is the star, Miss Crawford, and her newly acquired husband, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Rod La Rocque, Anita Page, Josephine Dunn, Eddie Nugent, Albert Gran and others of note make up the cast of thirteen principals.

Full proof that Director Conway is not superstitious lies in the fact that the filming of the picture was completed without a mishap. And just before he started the picture he received a Christmas gift in the form of a watch with thirteen jewels.

Also on this bill! "The Circus Kid" and Fox Movietone News.

Phillips jumped in his chair as the door to his office swung open. Joe was coming into the room. For one tense second the manager thought that Joe had come to have things out. Waves of intense heat and cold ran through his body. His face paled. His hands became moist and clammy. It seemed hours before he could move. Then he rose quickly, leaning against the desk for support. And then he saw that Joe was smiling—a friendly, good-natured smile. He took a deep breath, like a swimmer coming up after a long stay under water.

"Why don't you knock when you come in here?" Phillips was surprised at the sound of his own voice. And he said the first thing that came into his mind.

"Say, listen," Joe retorted jovially. "If there's anything I hate it's a knocker. Lend me a century. I'll have it in a jiffy." He held out his hand expectantly.

Phillips frowned and looked very stern. Now that his fright was over, he felt weak and limp, and to hide his own emotional reaction he blustered and made a pretense of severity.

"What the Sam Hill do you do with all your money?" Phillips asked. "You get paid all the time, yet you come borrowing. Where do you spend it?"

"Oh, I endow hospitals and colleges and take subscriptions to magazines to help kids through college—and say," Joe caught sight of a purse on the desk. "Isn't that Katherine's bag?" He touched the pocketbook curiously.

"She picked up the bag," Joe said. "Well, come on, big boy! Give!" He held out his hand. "One century, ten sawbucks, one hundred little smackers. Give in!"

Phillips dug down into his pocket and pulled forth a roll of bills. Carefully he peeled off four twenty dollar bills and two tens and handed them to Joe.

"Thanks, Art," Joe rolled the money into a little wad in his hand. "See you later. I got those Excelsior boys fixed up. Okay." He hurried back to the reception room without waiting for any comment from Phillips.

"Here you are, Kitty," he counted the money into his wife's hand, keeping one of the ten dollar bills himself. "Ninety smackers. I'm holdin' out a sawbuck."

"I wish you hadn't done that, Joe," Kitty began slowly.

"Why, that's all right, honey," Joe protested. "Art's big hearted that way. He's a swell guy."

Katherine's eyes narrowed and her lips parted. "I don't like to spend his money, though. I do wish you would take care of money and not have to borrow from him."

"Oh, don't be finicky, sweets. I'll pay him back," Joe assured his wife. "Look," he held up her purse, distracting her attention. "You left your bag in his office."

Katherine reached mechanically for the pocketbook and opened it, thrusting the bills into it. She had to lower her head to look at the

Local Baptists To Attend Meet

Richmond will send delegates to the 79th annual meeting of the San Francisco Bay Baptist association, which will be held in the First Baptist church at Berkeley tonight. Rev. Kenneth Wallace of Richmond will open the session.

Rev. Weldon Wilson, formerly of Richmond, and now director of religious education at the First Baptist church, Oakland, will deliver an address this morning.

The meeting will close Friday night.

CHAPTER III

"Hey! Joe!" A head appeared around a half-opened doorway along the corridor and an arm, with shirt-sleeves rolled above the elbow, beckoned.

"How a count, big boy?" Joe stopped in answer to the hoarse whisper that assailed his ears.

"Come on in," the song plunger invited, catching Joe's arm. "The lories are gallopin'—and how!"

"Nix on that stuff!" Joe shook his head. "I gotta meet the wife in about an hour."

"Well, that gives you an hour to catch up with a little extra jack. Come on, Seven! Baby needs a new pair of shoes!"

"Nope, I gotta work," Joe hedged, but his feet moved closer to the door and his hand groped in his pocket; his fingers closed about the ten dollar bill.

"Well, just have a little shot then," the song plunger persisted. Joe weakened rapidly. There was only a moment's deliberation, and then he nodded. "All right. Just one." He followed the song plunger into the room, closing the door behind him.

A small group of men huddled close together about a table in the center of the broadcasting room. Microphones, chairs, and all such extraneous objects had been pushed to one side. All activity, all interest, was focused on the one spot. For the merest fraction of a second there was complete silence.

"Come on, Seven! Baby needs a new pair of shoes!"

One of the men at the table turned his head. "Hello, Joe," he called. "Wanna get in?"

Again Joe hesitated. That little game known to some as "shootin' African Golf," in others as "shootin' craps," was a weakness of his. And around the broadcasting studio it was as popular as pinocle among stage hands and musicians. Katherine had been prone to touch the dice again—but that was usually after a long, losing session. And then she began to forget the promises and the losses, once his fingers closed round the little white cubes he knew only the thrill of Chance.

"Nope," Joe began, trying to hang firmly to his past resolutions. "I'm gonna meet the wife in a little while." He tried to think of Katherine waiting for him.

"Come on," another player urged. "Let's have a little of that money you're entitled to on your record. The games' hot and Mama wants a new diamond bracelet!"

"Well, anybody's been going like Joe," encouraged another. "Come on. Get in." He held out the cubes, shaking them about in his hand.

"Oh, Lady Luck! Well, boys, I got just one sawbuck—ten iron men." Joe reached into his pocket and pulled out the ten-dollar bill, spreading it on the palm of his hand. "I'll contribute that to charity and then get out. How's that?" He threw the bill on the table.

One of the men took the dice and handed them to Joe. "Your bones, kid."

"So soon! All right, boys, if you insist I'll entertain you for five minutes—but no longer." He rolled the cubes between the palms of his hands, breathing upon them. "No children," he crooned. "Papa wants a natural—a sweet natural!" He shook the dice. "Come on, babies, give 'em your master's voice speaking. Listen to Papa! Come on, you natural!" He threw the dice. "Look how they obey me," he sighed gently. "Sweet babies, come to Papa. What're you playin' for, boys? Buttons?" "I'll shoot the works!"

"I'll shoot the works!" Joe exclaimed, reaching for the dice, "and time to take the dice and lower her head to look at the

10,000 TO BE AT SCIOTS' CONCLAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 25.—With the opening date of the greatest convention in the history of Scioto drawing near, Waldo F. Postel, convention chairman, announced that 4000 rooms had been contracted for with 47 local hotels for the convention days, Nov. 6 to 9, inclusive.

Among the pyramids of Scioto that already have reserved rooms for the convention period are Long Beach, which has asked for 200 rooms; Fresno, Stockton and San Diego, which have reserved 150 rooms each; and San Bernardino, Sacramento, Santa Monica, Dunsmuir, Vallejo, and other pyramids, all have applied for large allotments.

Chairman Postel said that through arrangements made with hotel managers, all reservations must be made direct to the Scioto convention committee here.

One of the principal features of the four-day convention will be the mammoth civic carnival which is being planned by Scioto, for not only members, but the general public. This feature, patterned after the famous Portola festivals of old San Francisco, is expected to bring approximately 200,000 people here during the four days of celebration, which will be climaxed with a mammoth electric street parade and Mardi Gras festival.

All western states will be represented with delegations at the convention, many of them bringing large groups of candidates to be initiated into Scioto on the opening night of the convention, the largest ever held by a Scioto pyramid. Special seating arrangements at the convention hall are now being made by Louis M. Sutter, Toparch, San Francisco pyramid of Sciots, and Mobbie George Katch, who will jointly be in charge of this phase of the convention.

On the left there is a tabulated form showing the actual increased value of RICHMOND property according to the assessed value. Property values are governed by the value the assessment shows—from $3,000,000 to more than $29,000,000 seems little short of miraculous in 22 years. The estimated value of Richmond property looks like a page from the Arabian Nights—it is staggering, to say the least.

Real estate men will tell you that twenty years ago lots could be bought on Macdonald avenue for as little as $250. Today a choice lot on Macdonald avenue would cost around $60,000. And then perhaps it would not be available. True it is that there are some at either end of Macdonald avenue that could be purchased for considerably less—but what will these same lots be worth ten or fifteen years hence, with the rapid growth that Richmond is making and with the bright future our city has?

Richmond is little more than twenty-five years old and is just an infant as a city goes. Can you vision what Richmond will be in the next twenty-five years? Or even a dozen years?

Population will increase—it's bound to—new industries are coming and with them will come a greater population. Since 1923 RICHMOND has increased its population SIXTY-SIX PER CENT. What other city can claim anything like that? And the best part of it is that the foregoing is a fact, not just idle talk. Allow your imagination to see RICHMOND, with its railroads, industries, harbor, and all the advantages here. It is not hard to see a city of 100,000.

It has been predicted that California will some day have a population of fifty million people—and RICHMOND will more than get its share. With the rapid advance of the airplane, our hills will some day be the most valuable property in the city. Don't be afraid to own property in RICHMOND—it will pay big dividends. Above all, be a booster for your city.

Dusty Miller, Doyle Fight At Vallejo

VALLEJO, Sept. 25.—Respective managers today announced "Dusty" Miller, Canadian negro, and Bud Doyle, San Jose heavyweight, to be in perfect condition for their "fistic classic of the year," a 10-round main event at the Auditorium here Thursday night.

The contest is finished training Tuesday night at the local gym with several rounds of boxing and both boxers looked prime for the battle.

Two months ago these same two fighters staged one of the greatest heavyweight battles in the history of Vallejo pugilism and indications today are that they will stage another such battle.

That Doyle will rule a slight favorite to win when the boxers enter the ring was indicated to Doyle when he had been favoring the negro during the past week dropped to even money. A few bets had been offered at big odds that Miller would win by a knockout, but there were no takers.

Interest has been so keen among fans in this locality that it is expected that one of the largest crowds in the history of the local arena will see the fight. Five preliminary bouts have been signed to support the main event.

TOMMY, JACK READY FOR BATTLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—UP—Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey have stopped training—they are not talking—and are said to be as fit and ready as seven cyclopedias and a Roget's Thesaurus could make them.

Up in Yankee stadium on Thursday night these two outstanding American heavyweights will be called upon to say it with blows instead of blarney.

The American heavyweight title will be at stake, and customers paying $26 each for ringside seats no longer will be satisfied with words.

Good Fight
It may turn out to be a waste of a fight, at this 15-round engagement between the Lithuanian from Boston and the Harp from Philadelphia, but from the way Jack and Tommy are gnashing their teeth one would suppose that they have something to conceal in connection with the forthcoming affair.

Loughran, heretofore a modest, likable, and rather retiring light heavyweight, has increased his vocabulary as well as his girth in stepping into the unlimited abyss. The claims voiced on his behalf are well-nigh ludicrous. The young man who wasn't able to make a dent on any chin in his own division has become a man killer who will slaughter Sharkey as Dempsey did Jess Willard at Toledo.

Sharkey, of course, is never at a loss for words.

Promises To Fight
Tommy, who usually keeps a pair of roller skates handy in his corner, promises this time to step out and mix with the Lithuanian. Nothing should suit Sharkey better, but one never knows what Jack will do. He is quite as likely to jump through the ropes as he is to flatten Loughran with a punch, and vice versa.

Whatever the outcome, unless it is one of those terrible affairs such as marred the bout of a moonlit Miami evening last February, the winner will be the leading American heavyweight and recognized as such.

Loughran has not put on as much weight as he predicted. At 185 pounds he is plenty big enough for as size goes Sharkey will have a weight advantage Thursday night of some eight or nine pounds not enough to make any real difference.
